2 Teenagers Flee To West

HOHENGEISS, Germany (AP) — Two teen-agers escaped to the West in a hail of bullets Sunday at the same spot where East German border guards cold-bloodedly killed an escaping refugee before the eyes of horrified Western tourists Thursday.

The youths, both aged 19, were discovered just a few yards away from the barbed wire separating East and West. As the Communist guards blazed away with their machine-pistols they scrambled through to safety. Neither was hit.

Henry Ford II, Wife Separate

DETROIT (AP) — The end to a glamorous, 23-year marriage between a powerful industrialist who headed the far-flung Ford Motor Co. empire and a New York socialite who devoted much of her life to culture was announced Saturday in a curt, two-sentence note.

It said: "Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford II have decided upon a legal separation. They have entered into the usual form of separation agreement." The separation was agreed on without any court action and terms of any financial settlement were not disclosed. The announcement was made by the Detroit law firm of Bodman, Longley, Bogle, Armstrong & Dehling.

Negroes March In Harrisburg

HARRISBURG (AP) — "Freedom, Freedom" sang nearly 600 sign-carrying Negroes as they marched along Market Street, this city's main thoroughfare, protesting discrimination.

The peaceful demonstration, staged Saturday by the Dauphin County branch of the NAACP, included some whites and several clergymen. Some of their signs read: "Don't buy where you can't work" and "100 years of patience is long enough."

The march was climaxed by a rally in Reservoir Park, where Mayor Daniel J. Barry, introduced as a member of the NAACP, urged the Negroes to improve their lot by encouraging their children to remain in school.

India To Get Soviet Missiles

NEW DELHI (AP) — Usually reliable sources said Friday India was turned down by the United States in a bid for antiaircraft missiles and the Soviet Union has now agreed to supply them.

Britain and the United States stipulated that military aid should be used only for defense against Communist China. This restriction was intended to reassure their ally, neighboring Pakistan, which fears Indian attack because of the dispute over control of the Himalayan state of Kashmir.

The Soviet Union, qualified sources said, imposed no limitations on use of arms shipped to India.

Adventists Hit School Aid

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — A Seventh-day Adventist official charged Sunday that pressure is building up to "raid public treasuries" for religious education in non-public schools.

"Pressure is mounting consistently in Washington for new types of legislation which will raid the treasury of the United States in behalf of sectarian schools," said Cyril Miller of Washington, secretary of the Religious Liberty Department of the Columbia Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

He said, "Lobbyists and lawyers are attempting to break down the wall of separation of church and state which has long been established by the (U.S.) Supreme Court."

U. N. To Assist Malaysia Union

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Foreign ministers of Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines Sunday cleared the way for the scheduled formation of Malaysia Aug. 31 by agreeing to have the United Nations sound out the wishes of North Borneo and Sarawak in the new federation.

Hungary Wants To Join Treaty

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Communist Hungary announced Sunday it welcomed the test ban treaty and wants to join it.

"Hungary is ready to sign it," a statement by the Central Committee of the Hungarian Communist Party said.

Earlier, East Germany, Poland, Romania and Bulgaria of the East bloc declared they wanted to join the Moscow test ban agreement.

General Assembly To Meet In Fall

HARRISBURG (AP) — The 1963 General Assembly has gone from Harrisburg. It is to return in special session in the fall.

The legislature closed the books on its 147th regular session about 3 a.m. Saturday, seven months and three days after it was convened.

It left town with three major issues still to be resolved: Legislative reapportionment, unemployment compensation and $72 million in state aid to private hospitals, universities and colleges.

Legislative reapportionment, mandated by the courts, and unemployment compensation, mandated by the governor, are almost certain to be considered in the special sessions—to be run either consecutively or concurrently.

Gov. Scranton also may have the lawmakers make another attempt to approve the $72 million in non-preferred appropriations, which the House Democrats twice sent stumbling to defeat.

Or he may wait until the 1964 session convenes in January to give consideration to the state's fiscal picture.

The legislatures closed the curtains on the regular session early Saturday morning after they okayed

Underworld Crime Secrets Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some-where in a secret hideout Sunday FBI agents were guarding an underworld figure who has given the Justice Department the most detailed information it has ever had on an organization which reputedly dominates much of the crime in the United States.

The informant is Joseph Valachi, 60. The organization he has described is the "Cosa Nostra," sometimes called the Syndicate.

And what he has spilled is described by a Justice Department spokesman as "an extraordinarily important intelligence breakthrough" in the war against crime.

Valachi's whereabouts are a closely guarded secret and will remain so, the Justice Department says. But he is to appear before the Senate investigations subcommittee when arrangements can be made in connection with its three-year-old investigations into the international narcotics traffic.

That appearance has not been scheduled and is not expected this month. It will come after the subcommittee has disposed of the TFX warplane contract probe.

Year Old Story

The Justice Department has been sitting on the story for more than a year, but confirmed the essentials after a copyrighted account appeared in Sunday's Washington Sunday Star.

One source said it is the first time anyone has talked so basically about the "Cosa Nostra"—Italian words literally meaning our thing—and the network of mobs it dominates in more than a dozen American cities.

The questioning of Valachi is reported virtually complete. His information has been checked and investigations based on it are underway.

Among other things he has outlined the structure of the Cosa Nostra: disciplined, terror-ridden organization and put the finger on some top racketeers already under investigation.

He has provided also an inside view of what happened at the crime convention at Apalachin.

Scranton's plans for stronger anthracite strip mine regulations and a purchase of hospital care program for Pennsylvania's indigent under age 65.

The official legislative journal shows that the regular session completed its work 6 p.m. EST, Thursday, the day set for adjournment. In order to meet the adjournment deadline, clocks in the House and Senate were turned back repeatedly so that the hands never reached the appointed time.

Thus, the last legislative day was the longest for the lawmakers—46 hours.

The governor was the first to make an official appeal of the record presented by the Republican-controlled assembly.

"I am tremendously pleased with what has been accomplished," Scranton said.

Republican State Chairman Craig Truax joined by applauding the GOP leadership for producing "one of the finest legislative records in the state's history."

Democratic State Chairman Otis B. Morse, however, called the legislature's record "a bleak one... that touches on the basic necessities to get us through."

Nikita Stages Test Ban Treaty Show

Premier Khrushchev is staging an impressive show for the nuclear test ban signing ceremony, giving the impression that he regards it as a great accomplishment for Soviet foreign policy.

The Kremlin arranged wide television coverage of the ceremony for European audiences. The treatment suggests that Moscow wants to present the treaty as a historic milestone on the road to salvation for the human race.

The idea seems to be that to question the Kremlin's motives in all this would be like finding fault with motherhood or telling the kiddies on Christmas Eve that Santa Claus had broken his leg.

Still, there is a nagging suspicion in Europe that Khrushchev's motives are not entirely altruistic, and that he is hoping for big dividends—for example, neutralization of the heart of Europe, pushing back Western defenses beyond the Rhine and eventual erosion of the Atlantic Alliance.

No responsible leader in the West will suggest that Khrushchev has abandoned the cold war, despite the look of thaw, or that the Kremlin thinks no longer of Communist expansion. Questions then must arise about Khrushchev's motives.

It is likely the Red Chinese-Soviet Communist split played a part in bringing the partial test ban about. Khrushchev's stated policy with regard to world communism is that more flies can be caught with honey than with vinegar. Peaceful coexistence, as he views it, weakens the political armor of the West, applies pressures against Western governments and creates a climate of trust for the Kremlin in which Communists can operate more effectively. Warlike gestures, such as those indulged in by Stalin, only tend to unite the West and keep its guard up.

It is altogether possible that the angry opposition of the Chinese to any compromise with the West hastened the agreement, as a rebuff to Peking.

Capital Of Peace

The big show in Moscow over the agreement — described by President Kennedy as only a small step toward the hope of peace—can be interpreted as an attempt by Khrushchev to picture Moscow as the capital of world peace.

There is nothing surprising in that. Long ago, Moscow claimed the peace banner as its private property, even when Kremlin threats flew about like bolts of lightning. The big question is this: Have Khrushchev's aims changed since 1961, when the Kremlin broke a moratorium on testing and loaded the air with new contamination from super-super-blasts?

West Germany's misgivings about the test ban are well known. They go beyond the fear that it will lead to acceptance of East German Communist sovereignty.

Khrushchev proposes now that Russians and Americans sit down and talk about a nonaggression agreement between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Communist Warsaw Pact group. He wants to talk about exchanging teams of observers to be posted at airports, rail centers and highway centers, supposedly to guard against surprise buildups for aggression. He wants to talk about freezing military budgets. He wants to talk about reducing the number of foreign troops in Communist East Germany and in West Germany.

Atomic Balance

Suppose, Europeans will be asking, there was a withdrawal of superweapons from both East and West Germany? Would that not mean that the balance of power in Europe was tipped decisively in favor of the U.S.S.R.?

What meaning, they may ask, would there be in posting observers at rail centers, highways and airports in a space-age push-button era?

It is possible some sort of non-aggression pact can be devised which the United States might think it could safely sign. But the impact of this upon Germany could not be overlooked.

Germany is the heart of the cold war in Europe. The cold war cannot be eased without questions vitally concerning the Germans—such as Berlin — showing some promise of solution. Given a series of U.S.-Soviet agreements on various issues, the Germans may ask themselves what is yet to come regarding Berlin, for example.

Russia Blasts China On Test Ban; Big Three To Sign Treaty On TV

Allies Prepare For Peace Talks

MOSCOW (AP)—With the stage set for the signing Monday of a nuclear test ban treaty, U.S. and British delegations met Sunday to coordinate strategy for the vital follow-up talks with Premier Khrushchev.

The treaty, the first important East-West agreement in recent years of the cold war, will be signed with much of Europe watching over television. Khrushchev delayed a Black Sea vacation to be present at the historic ceremony.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home held a final conference with key advisers at the British embassy, situated across the Moscow River from the Kremlin.

The meeting was to discuss their rounds of public and private meetings with Khrushchev before and after their formal signing of the three-power, limited test ban treaty in the Kremlin. Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will sign for the Soviet Union.

Rusk and Home are scheduled to pay separate calls on Khrushchev Monday morning. They meet together later at a Kremlin luncheon at which Khrushchev will play host.

The luncheon will be followed by the signing of ceremonies and a lavish reception in the huge white, vaulted St. George's Hall of the Kremlin.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant arrived for the signing. He was prepared to advance ideas for furthering the relaxation of tensions that the treaty-makers hopefully have said could follow the signing.

Thant declined to say what his ideas are. But there were reports he may propose that chiefs of government head their delegations to the U.N. General Assembly session opening Sept. 17 in New York. This would open the possibility for Khrushchev to go to New York and possibly Washington, next fall.

Thant will have a private meeting with Khrushchev.

Khrushchev is expected to leave for a Black Sea vacation Monday evening or Tuesday.

Soviet sources indicated that they expect the three-power talks among the foreign ministers Tuesday to discuss further Khrushchev's calls for an East-West non-aggression pact, safeguards against surprise attack, armament reductions and the German question.

Laos, Cuba

U.S. delegation sources said the two Western foreign ministers might possibly bring up two problems of vital interest to their governments—violations of Laotian neutrality agreements and Soviet troops in Cuba.

These sources said it was believed Rusk would continue his talks with Khrushchev at the Premier's summer home in Gagra, on the Black Sea, although the invitation has not yet been extended. It was believed he might fly to Gagra on Friday.

The signatures will be affixed to the treaty the day before the 18th anniversary of the first live nuclear bomb that fell on Hiroshima.

On the eve of the signing, the atmosphere was hopeful, with the hope heavily salted with caution about the talks which follow the signing.

Keating Predicts Ratification

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, (R-N.Y.) predicted Sunday there will be "only a handful of votes" against Senate ratification of the nuclear test ban treaty to be signed in Moscow Monday.

Keating, a frequent critic of administration foreign policy, said at the same time he has asked Secretary of State Dean Rusk for a flat statement "to kill, once and for all" what he called "rumors and reports" the United States has agreed to a non-aggression pact or increased East-West trade as the price for Soviet agreement.

"If we get a forthright response, and a denial of any under-the-table deals," the senator said, "then I am confident that the Senate will ratify this treatment by an overwhelming vote . . . At this time I would expect only a handful of votes against it."

"But that approval," Keating added, "does not amount to a blank check for or against other proposals or moves the Soviets or other nations may want to press at this time."

Costs $1.2 Billion Military Salary Boost Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators unveiled Sunday their version of a military pay increase of more than $1.2 billion a year for nearly two million persons now serving in the nation's armed forces.

Developed by a Senate Armed Services subcommittee under Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., it varies in several details from a similar pay boost voted by the House in May. It adds about $5 million to the estimated costs under that measure.

Cannon said he hopes to get approval from the parent Armed Services Committee at a closed session Monday, and bring the bill up on the Senate floor for possible passage Tuesday.

Senate passage would send the complex measure back to the House for a Senate-House compromise required before the bill goes to President Kennedy for expected approval, perhaps by Sept. 1. The higher pay would become effective the month after the measure is signed into law.

First Since 1953

Both Senate and House versions would provide the first military pay increases since 1953. The largest percentage boosts would go to commissioned officers below the grade of colonel and to skilled enlisted technicians and noncommissioned officers.

Biggest change made by the Senate group was to include some increases for both officers and enlisted personnel with less than two years' service.

The House had excluded this group because many are serving the minimum time required by the draft, or under commissions obtained to avoid being inducted.

Cannon said his group decided that enlisted personnel who had made corporal or sergeant in less than two years were entitled to an increase of about 5 per cent. Lower-ranking officers with similar service periods would get raises of 8 to 12 per cent.

Violent Outburst Startles West

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press denounced Red China in such violent terms Sunday that it startled Westerners and threw a cloud over future relations between the two Communist giants.

Publishing the text of Peking's attack on the Kremlin for initiating a nuclear test ban treaty, Izvestia and Pravda said the Chinese statement was not fit to print.

It was being shown to the public "so that all the Soviet people should know how low the Chinese leaders have sunk," said a foreword to the text of the article.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in Moscow to sign the test ban treaty Monday, stopped church services to listen to a briefing on the blistering Peking-Moscow quarrel from key aides.

Communists Glum

There was a mood of pessimism among foreign Communist commentators although everyone else seemed to be happy about the signing of the treaty by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

One foreign Communist observer of high order even said the next thing to expect was a rupture of diplomatic relations between China and the Soviet Union.

What cut deeply in the Kremlin was Peking's charge in its statement July 31 that the Soviet Union had sold out to the "imperialist" United States by signing the treaty to end nuclear tests in the air, space and under water.

The Soviet reply, published in full alongside the Chinese statement, assailed Peking for refusing to agree to the treaty.

Amazed at the violence of the exchange, the Americans and British were reserved in comments about whether it could affect East-West negotiations in Moscow this week.

One important U.S. source said it was hard to believe the Russians would fail to come to the support of the Red Chinese if they got into trouble with the West. He spoke of the Russian comment in its reply to the Chinese that the Soviet nuclear umbrella shelters the whole Communist camp, including China.

The Russians released the anti-Chinese blast almost immediately after Rusk's arrival Saturday night together with the text of Peking's July 31 statement denouncing the three-power nuclear test ban as a "dirty fraud."

Monk Dies In Flaming Suicide

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — The government said Sunday that a young Vietnamese Buddhist monk burned himself alive in a fishing village in protest against alleged government religious persecution.

The fiery suicide of the monk was the second such incident since tension between Buddhist leaders and the South Viet Nam government flared into violence May 8.

The monk was identified as the Rev. Mr. Le, in his early 20s.

The latest burning occurred shortly after noon Sunday in the town of Phan Thiet, 100 miles east of Saigon on the coast of the South China Sea.

According to the government account, the young monk was alone in front of a war memorial in the public square when he set his robes on fire.

Hunger Strike

Buddhists in Saigon said their reports indicated, however, the monk had died in his pagoda, where two monks, two nuns and 15 laymen have been conducting a hunger strike for the past week.

Government civil guards took the monk's body to a hospital in Phan Thiet.

A delegation of four monks from the main Buddhist pagoda in Saigon planned to bring back the body Monday.

A spokesman at Xa Loi pagoda in Saigon said the suicide did not come as a surprise, although the exact date it would take place was not known.

"Pagodas throughout the country have been instructed to carry out self-memorials, hunger strikes and demonstrations according to circumstances they think is appropriate," the spokesman said.

McGurk was treated for lacerations of the back and head and admitted to the hospital.

Gary Sullivan of Bethlehem, a passenger in the car, was treated for shock and admitted for further examination.

Dale Grover of 700 Bryant St., Stroudsburg, another passenger was not hurt.

Good Morning!

Despite inflation, a penny is still a fair price for most people's thoughts.

State News Briefs

Catholic, Private Bus Subsidy Bill Dead

HARRISBURG (AP)—The question of tax-paid bus transportation for Catholic and private school children was buried finally in the closing hours of the 1963 General Assembly early Saturday morning.

A six-member joint legislative conference committee, meeting intermittently for two days reported shortly after midnight that it was hopelessly deadlocked.

The House killed off another part of the issue by voting, 171-8, to table a Senate-passed measure to ask the voters in 1965 whether they would want to amend the state Constitution to permit non-public school children to ride school buses at public expense.

Advocates of such aid were reported in accord with the decision to abandon the amendment plan, fearful it would be beaten badly and set their cause back for some time. They argue school bus aid is legal under the present Constitution.

Bills Passed By Legislature

HARRISBURG (AP) — Bills passed by the state legislature early Saturday morning and sent to the governor for signature include:

Revise absentee balloting procedures.

Create advisory commission to develop long-range highway building programs.

Authorize a state-financed $213 million building program.

Exempt emergency vehicles from tolls on Delaware River bridges.

Expand the fish commission to include a representative of boatmen.

Amend the Constitution to prohibit authority financing of state debts.

Require complete backfilling in anthracite strip mines 100 feet or less in depth and set up a five-member land restoration board to regulate mines over 100 feet deep, between Philadelphia and New Jersey.

Relieve liquor licensees from liability for damages inflicted by their customers off the licensed premises.

Provide for detention of maximum security patients at the Fairview State Mental Hospital as well as the criminally insane.

Provide state mortgage insurance for industrial development loans in areas outside economically distressed regions.

Allow the city of Philadelphia to appeal decisions of the civil service commission to the courts, despite adoption of a home rule charter.

Exempt from the sales tax fish raised in commercial hatcheries and sold to licensed fee fishing camps.

Strip Mining Bill Approved

HARRISBURG (AP) — The administration's controversial anthracite strip mining bill finally cleared the House and Senate Friday night after a legislative conference committee refused to restore tougher backfilling requirements.

The measure, passed as originally proposed by the administration two months ago, was sent to Gov. Scranton for his signature on votes of 180-8 in the House and 49-1 in the Senate.

It would require complete backfilling to contour only in mine pits 100 feet or less in depth. A five-member land restoration board would be established to regulate backfilling for pits over 100 feet. Advocates of stronger legislation sought to have complete backfilling in virtually all cases. The House injected such amendments in the proposal's first strip through the chamber, but the Senate Mines Committee ripped them out, restoring the bill to its original form.

New Wage Office In Scranton

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state Labor and Industry Department said Friday it will open a new bureau of women and children and minimum wages in the city of Scranton.

The exact site of the office has not been determined as yet.

The office will be headed by Mrs. Leona Weinstein of Scranton, who will serve as labor inspector supervisor at an annual salary of $5,268.

Counties to be included in the office's area of responsibility are: Lackawanna, Luzerne, Carbon, Monroe, Pike, Wayne, Wyoming, Northampton, Susquehanna, Tioga, Sullivan and Bradford.

Assembly Okays New Speed Limit

HARRISBURG (AP)—The General Assembly approved new speed limits for Pennsylvania highways Friday, raising the top speed for trucks and automobiles. The House approved technical changes made by the Senate in the House-originated measure, clearing the bill for consideration by Gov. Scranton.

Automobiles would be permitted a top speed of 60 miles per hour on any road 20 feet or more in width.

Trucks driving the Pennsylvania Turnpike, federal interstate highways and controlled access roads would be allowed 55 miles per hour.

The top speed permitted on state roads now is 50 miles per hour generally. The highways secretary has authority to raise it to 60 miles per hour for automobiles on highways where he feels such speed would be safe.

The turnpike also is permitted a 70-miles-per-hour speed limit, although it has in effect a 65 speed limit.

Two Injured Near Milford Early Saturday Morning

MILFORD — Two men were injured Saturday at 3:25 a.m. when the car they were in rolled over four times and came to a stop on its roof on Foster Hill road coming into this borough.

State Police from Milford barracks identified the men as Amos Knoll, 20, of 279 E. 92nd St., Brooklyn, N. Y., driver of the car, and Ronald Lane 16, of 2468 E. 27th St., Brooklyn, a passenger in the car.

Knoll, police said, suffered a possible fracture to his left shoulder and left hand. Lane received a possible fractured spine. The two men were taken to Doctors Sunny-side Hospital, Port Jervis, N. Y., where they were given treatment.

A spokesman for the hospital said several x-rays had been taken of both men and they were released. Lane was released to his parents and Knoll was released but the spokesman did not know to whom.

State Police said the car operated by Knoll entered Rt. 209 from L. R. 51010, ran off the left side of the road, skidded on the shoulder of the road, rolled over four times and came to rest on its roof. The car is a total loss.

They added that Knoll will be arrested on a charge of failing to drive on the right side of the road.

Two Killed In Palmerton Accident

PALMERTON — Two Palmerton RD 1 men were killed Saturday when the car in which they were riding struck a tree near Aquashicola in Carbon County.

Killed were Roy Kocher, 26, and his 17 year old brother, Edward. State Police at Lehighton said a car driven by Marlin Berger of Kunkelstown, in which the two men were riding, skidded off legislative Rt. 12040 and crashed into a tree. The accident occurred at 12:20 p.m.

Berger suffered a fractured skull, and possible chest injuries. He was listed in critical condition at Palmerton Hospital yesterday.

Hit-Run Driver Surrenders

STROUDSBURG — John K. Wolter, 22, of Station B, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., surrendered himself to State Police, at the Fern Ridge barracks, Saturday after he ran away from the Hudson River State Hospital, near Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Wolter was taken to Monroe County Jail where he will be detained until New York State authorities come to take him back to the hospital.

A spokesman for the jail said officials from New York State are expected to arrive here today.

Reckless Driving Charge Issued

BANGOR — William P. Doall, 49, of Bangor, will be charged with reckless driving, as the result of an accident in Forks Township near Easton Friday, according to Forks Township police.

According to Forks Township Police Chief Wayne Frick, Doall struck the rear of a car driven by Sant Kranson, of Wilkes-Barre, while both cars were travelling north. There were no injuries.

Ten Major Fields

Expanded Liberal Arts Plan At ESSC Explained

EAST STROUDSBURG — The new liberal arts program at East Stroudsburg State College includes ten major fields, according to Dr. John Appel, director of the program.

There are four in the natural sciences, three in the humanities, and three in the social sciences.

Dr. Appel said "We've got to advertise this new program. The college has been known for its efforts in education, but this liberal arts program is new, and there is competition from other local liberal arts colleges."

"This is a wonderful opportunity for people in this area," he added. Dr. Appel said the same standards of admission to the liberal arts course will be used, because of the anticipated numbers of commuting and part-time students from the area.

Asked whether there would be additions to the faculty, Dr. Appel said "There will be changes and additions, but I don't have any information on them." Appel pointed out that additions to the faculty and the liberal arts program's potential will grow steadily.

The increase in the faculty would further add to the departments of music and art, said Appel.

Appel also pointed out that majors in both psychology and philosophy are planned for the liberal arts program, but that no definite plans have been made to divert parts of the faculty to these courses, as yet.

"We have psychologists, but they are all concerned with the education courses," he said.

The liberal arts program is designed for those students who do not wish to go into education, according to Appel. He also pointed out that the new course does not stipulate that a student begin his major field of concentration as a freshman, but rather that he become acquainted with all the different types of courses and fields open to him under the new program in his first two years.

The student then chooses his major field when he is a sophomore, Appel pointed out. "This gives the student a chance to discover new interests, new talents. He has a better idea of what he feels his major field should be," Dr. Appel said.

Many area students are forced to commute, because "there is no more dormitory room," said President LeRoy Koehler. The anticipated enrollment for the coming year is 1,750 students, 450 of which are freshmen. "Our facilities just won't permit more," the president said.

"We have 220 girls, and nowhere to put them," said Koehler with reference to the unfinished dormitories. "We hope they will be finished by mid-October, so the girls won't freeze," he said. The dormitories were to have been finished August 15, Dr. Koehler pointed out.

Koehler pointed out that "What we need is really a recitation room building." He said that most of the recitation rooms are taken by physical education classes.

"When the new field house is built, these classes will move into it. The recitation rooms can then be used by other classes," he said.

The president pointed out that the administration is faced with the problem of not having the proper housing facilities for the students.

"Under the government's School Aid program, there are many allocations that will provide buildings for us, when they (the allocations) come through," Koehler said.

State Police from the Milford barracks did not have complete information on the accident as they have been unable to question the injured.

A spokesman for the hospital identified the boys as Edward Toy, 17, of North Collingswood, N.J.; Dwayne Avery, 16, of Philadelphia, and Frank Sees, 16, of Philadelphia.

The spokesman said that Toy is believed to have been the driver of the car. Toy suffered abrasions and contusions to his right leg and chest. Avery received a possible fractured jaw and lacerations to his chin and right knee. Sees received a laceration to his forehead.

State Police said they would continue the investigation today.

IT GETS AROUND — Sheet music published by Fred Waring's Shawnee Press in Delaware Water Gap is examined by Polish musicians visiting the United States exhibit during the Poznan International Trade Fair. The 32nd annual fair was held in June with 450,000 Poles attending.

Rep. Yetter Has Sticker On Car; Truck Bills Pass

MARSHALLS CREEK — Van D. Yetter, Democratic representative from Monroe County, last night told the Daily Record that his car was one of several parked on the Capitol Hill parking lot Friday that did not have the new inspection sticker displayed as required by law.

Yetter said, "I knew the car was due to be inspected before I left for Harrisburg early in the week, but I thought I'd be home before the deadline for inspection."

Yetter had his car inspected Saturday morning in a Monroe County garage. He laughed and said, "Now I wonder what the newspaper will have to say about that. I don't mean The Daily Record, I'm referring to the Harrisburg papers."

Yetter also reported that three bills he is co-sponsor of passed in the House last week.

The bills are:

1. Scales used to weigh trucks must be tested twice a year.

2. Truckers can demand to have their trucks weighed on another scale.

3. Truckers will be permitted to shift their load if, when weighed, one axle shows lower than a legal limit and another axle is overweight.

The bills were sent on to the Senate for action.

More Posters

Another election is past, and the number of posters defiling the trees of the Pocono Mountain resort area has taken a great leap forward.

In the summer, at the height of the tourist season, it is particularly unpleasant to see Bartlett and Rooney for Congress posters on every other tree and utility pole as one drives through the Poconos.

And it's not just Bartlett and Rooney. Gerald A. Snyder, Republican opponent of State Rep. Van D. Yetter in November, 1962, is still being advertised on some trees and poles. Numerous posters from the May primary are still up. Some say, "There oughta be a law."

And perhaps that is the only way to clean up the mess.

But a little party and personal responsibility is all that is needed. Putting up posters is only part of the job. Party workers who put them up should also be instructed to take them down after the election.

Both parties spent a lot of money in the last election paying workers to bring voters to the polls. Now perhaps a few more dollars are needed to get the posters off the poles.

Some of the posters, which are illegally attached to utility poles with nails, are a hazard to workmen who have to climb the poles to repair wires. Most of them are just an ugly eye-sore. All of them should come down.

Welcome Back, Phoebe

The Phoebe Snow is running again on the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad from Hoboken, N. J. to Chicago. (See picture on Page 1.)

She was the pride of the Lackawanna in 1900 when the special train was advertised as the cleanest ride in America. When soft coal was the usual fuel for steam engines, she was puffing the cleaner smoke of hard coal.

Now she is drinking oil and is cleaner than ever with her diesel engine, newly refurbished cars and the familiar maroon and gray colors.

Her rebirth is attributed largely to the return of William White as chief executive officer of the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad. She was the apple of his eye when he was Lackawanna president and now he is putting her back to work.

We hope our nostalgia and his is buttressed by good business so that Phoebe Snow can come back to stay.

Life Is Dangerous

Sometimes the price of progress is greater peril.

A Canadian woman narrowly escaped frostbite or more serious injury when she fell into her huge home freezer the other day.

It was higher than her shoulders to start with, and when she fell in head first while reaching for a tasty sirloin steak, she almost didn't escape.

Her daughter heard her thrashing and got her out.

What would the 17th and 18th century settlers who fought Indians for their lives and worked hard for every sirloin say about that poor lady's difficulties?

The threat to their lives came from other more respectable dangers. Today we have to be experts to prevent our conveniences from killing us.

Nuclear Deodorant

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — With the moth-balling of the 1963 legislative session, the floodgates on Capitol Hill now are destined to be opened in earnest.

This is not to say Capitol Hill is going to be washed away or anything quite as heartening as that; rather in simplest terms it means the way has been cleared for a little down to earth ruckus-raising for the first time since the Scranton Administration some seven months ago.

The basic fact is that as long as the Legislature is in session, the executive branch inevitably moves in every step as though it were in bare feet walking on red hot spikes.

There is good reason for this of course — for after all, it is the Legislature that has the constitutional power to earthquake the daylight out of the administration (executive branch).

Admittedly this power is rarely used in its fullest extent (they only tried to impeach a Governor once) but even at quarter-throttle, the wallop of lawmakers (if they could ever get together as a team) can be and oftentimes is, most devastating.

Thus the barefoot-on-the-hot-spikes attitude and tiptoeing (literal, of course) that inevitably surround the actions of an administration when the legislative jockeys are in the saddle.

The current Republican Scranton Administration in the seven months it has been nipping at the public trough has been no exception — as were the two preceding Democratic administrations.

There are those who insist that much of this is obviated when the two legislative houses are in the same political tent as that of the administration — the thought being that they would not turn on their political brethren.

This is true to a certain extent but past experience has shown that a couple of mavericks in the party hierarchy (and they have 'em in both parties) can raise all sorts of hob. In instances where the margin of party control of the Legislature is thin (as in the present case with only one vote to spare in the Senate and only three in the House) the situation becomes most ticklish at best.

In fact it's been ticklish in the 1963 session, as the record already shows.

Too, under such narrow margin conditions there is always the possibility that congenial flare-ups on the part of the opposition minority blocs might be just enough to snare the minimal needed support from administration legislative forces!

In any event, the Scranton Administration has been taking no chances.

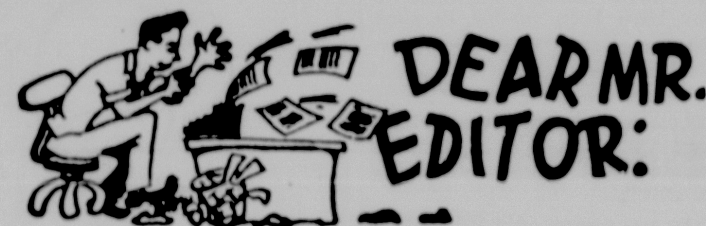

But now with the lawmaking bravos decamped from Capitol Hill (at last) the complexion of the situation has changed entirely.

The Legislature has divested itself of most of its overpowering authority until 1965 when it will return once again in general session with the right "To take up anything under the sun."

When it gathers next year it will be limited to consideration of fiscal matters only — the new budget for the fiscal year, etc.

Should it be recalled in special session later this year, it will have power only to consider exactly what the Governor specifies in his special session call — and it is doubtful that Governor Scranton or any other chief executive would list as one of his specifications anything approaching a suggestion that the Legislature lambast his administration or anything so negative thereto!

Beauty Of Delaware Valley Defended Against Tocks Dam

Editor, The Daily Record:

"Will you walk into my parlor?" said the spider to the fly. . . . "Would you like to tour Tocks Island and our castles in the air?"

Thus is the invitation from local agencies, two of which are supported by our taxes and the other the WRA-DRB, an association whose express purpose is to present all related water projects so skillfully as to make us impatient for the day when they materialize.

No mention will be made on the August 8 tour of the valley in the region of Tocks Island of the dignity of the individuals who call this valley "home", no mention will be made that this valley has been self-supporting since the beginning of time.

While pointing out the Theune and Farrington farms whose dairy cattle recently made first place in their production of milk, butterfat, etc., while pointing out the beautiful contour farming of John Michael's farm, you will not be reminded that these fine examples of American farming are within months to be closed down because a few men sat down together with a map in Washington and decided that this location was the hon which would lay the most golden eggs for them.

Not too visible from a bus on a guided tour will be such facts as the John M. Michael farm on the river road has won the state prize in recent years for producing the most potatoes per acre — 556 bushels to be exact.

Alvin DeWitt, Jr. not many years ago produced such a bumper crop of field corn that our local farm agent personally came to see, measure and admire the results.

The valley produces first quality cantaloupes weighing up to 18 lbs., field corn 8 feet tall, and still growing a crop of rye stands this minute on the Blam-Charles farm averaging 6 ft. in height and bent to the ground with the weight of its full production.

We need no experts from outside or inside to tell us of the beauty of this valley. Many years ago the silent film, "Yolandia", was made in this location . . . beauty will be one of the things we won't have to think the park developers for.

The copper mines await modern mining. If we want to talk about numbers and statistics, anyone could match the estimators number for number. If you want to believe that an average of six or seven million tourists are going to infiltrate the region yearly after the dam is built, you may as well start realizing now that they are going to infiltrate the region annually whether or not there is a dam and park and, in fact, I think every single one of the estimated tourists has been in Stroudsburg on Friday nights for the past some years!

Seriously, have you considered the network of roads that will be needed to bring in 7 million? The next move may be yours.

Camp Miller for boys, Camp Hagen for girls, and the Camp Ministerium, all three in Middle Smithfield Township, have already accommodated to the near million mark over the years. They are three outstanding camps that have a top notch rating for camps of their kind.

Across the Delaware in New Jersey, where there is such a place as "Harry's Farm," and again two fine boy scout camps, Pahaquarra and Cowaw.

Adjoining them is the old Lock farm which just a few years back won the New Jersey State Award for its production of sweet corn — the largest sweet corn farm in New Jersey.

You can take a car or helicopter, or if you're one of our bureaucrats, take a magic carpet and make a list of the activities between Hialeah Park near Shawnee and Port Jervis, and you will begin to realize what will be extricated versus what will ensue . . .

You will also begin to understand what is also significant about the year 1949, the year our State legislature created the General State Authority, "an independent agency created to issue bonds and undertake construction projects the state constitution does not permit the State to do itself."

The General State Authority is another example of how to run a state without the voice (interference) of the private citizen. The noteworthy point brought out is that in the cases of three federal parks in Pennsylvania, all three in the making, never is it necessary to have the voice of the citizen. Yet there has been much discussion on how to get the fish up the ladder!

When you drive through the valley next time — drive the 40 mile entire length of the proposed park and dam — think for yourself about what is happening here. It may be one of the last freedoms — thinking.

GOP Wants Look At Letters

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, August 5 — Senate Republican leaders are squaring off to raise a nuclear inspection issue of their own in the crucial debate on the test ban treaty.

They propose to formally ask

President Kennedy to submit for scrutiny by the Senate his extended exchange of letters with Premier Khrushchev on the test ban, other disarmament proposals, Cuba, Berlin and Laos. It is authoritatively known that this private correspondence exceeds 30 letters.

Dear Abby

She's Miffed!

DEAR ABBY: All right, let's see if YOU think I am "sick" and should see a psychiatrist. My husband gave me a surprise party for my birthday last month. He planned it all on the telephone with a good friend of mine. I really was thrilled for it was a grand party. But when he gave HER a corsage exactly like the one he gave me, it spoiled everything. This was the first corsage my husband had bought me in 33 years of marriage, and I had to share the honor with another woman. I would like your opinion on this. A person doesn't enjoy being told she is "nuts".

LUMP IN MY THROAT

DEAR LUMP: I don't think you are "nuts", but I do think you are over-reacting. True, your husband acted thoughtlessly, but he was only repaying a friend for helping to plan your party. And it's the party that counts. Don't mention the corsage again.

DEAR ABBY: My husband could be the "well-dressed, successful business man", a about whom you wrote recently, who walks around with holes in his socks. And it isn't because his wife doesn't give a darn. I have darned his socks until I am weary, but he can put his thumb through a sock by just pulling it on for the first time. I've bought ribbed socks, stretch socks, nylon socks and woolen socks, but nothing lasts. I've seen my husband put on a brand new pair of hole-proof socks, and one hour later I look down and he has a hole in both heels the size of half-dollars. What can

I do? If anyone tells me that my man looks shabby because his wife doesn't give a darn, they're apt to get a sock in the eye. GIVES A DARN

DEAR ABBY: Our son became officially engaged last June, with plans to marry this June, but it never came off. He is 30 and the girl is 23. He gave her a very costly diamond, which was quite a rock by anybody's standards. This girl has been seen out with other men, but she denied it when my son asked her. (I saw her and so did my husband.) Our son refuses to believe she is playing him for a fool, but it is so obvious it is pathetic. Now she says she wants to "stay engaged and keep the ring", but she needs to date other men to "test their love". What do you think of this?

THE OLD FOLKS

DEAR FOLKS: Any man who gives a girl a "rock" and allows her to date others to "test their love" has several much larger rocks in his head. But he's 30, Mom, and you can't tell him what to do.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ZIP CODE 900 69": Don't be silly, grab him! Don't you know a happy husband is nine feet tall?

Tell your troubles to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Safety Rules For Pesticides

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The United States Public Health Service wasted no time establishing the following rules for the safe use of insecticides in the home and in the garden. The increasing concern about the potential dangers of pesticides can be alleviated if these suggested rules are rigidly followed.

Two Basic Rules

No matter how often you use a pesticide, or how well you think you know the directions, read the label each time before you start work and follow the directions exactly.

The other most important rule is keep pesticides away from children.

Other Precautions

Other important suggestions are:

1. Use a pesticide only when it is really needed and then use the one best suited to your needs. Read the label carefully.

2. Keep pesticides in a plainly labeled container, preferably its original one. If you must transfer, mark container clearly.

3. Store pesticides under lock and key away from food items and out of the reach of children, pets and people who might not be able to understand their danger.

4. Avoid inhaling dust and fumes and avoid getting materials on the skin when handling, mixing or applying pesticides.

5. If there is an accident, most pesticide labels advise washing with lots of fresh water in cases of external exposure. Check the label before using so you'll know what to do in an emergency.

If accidentally taken internally, call a doctor or get the patient to a hospital.

6. People who suspect special sensitivity to pesticides should consult an allergist and, if so advised, should avoid offending agents.

7. Wash hands thoroughly after using pesticides and before eating or smoking.

8. Get rid of used containers in a way that will not leave the package or leftover contents around as a hazard to children, animals or plants.

9. Work in a well-ventilated area to avoid inhalation of fumes.

10. Do not spray into the wind.

11. Wear protective clothing such as gloves, aprons, goggles, respirators and masks when so directed.

12. If clothing or skin become contaminated, wash the skin and change to clean clothing. Wash contaminated clothing before re-use.

13. Avoid the fire hazard caused by smoking, defective wiring and open flames when mixing or using inflammable chemicals.

14. For food plants and crops use the proper dose and allow the full time advised between applying and picking to avoid leaving a harmful amount of pesticides on food to be eaten.

15. Check sprayers before each use to make certain that hose connections are tight and valves do not leak.

16. Cover food and water containers when using pesticides around livestock or pet areas.

17. Do not spray or treat animals, their feeding areas or plants with pesticides unless you are certain such treatment has been approved for that use.

The value of insecticides can be enhanced if their chemical ingredients do not threaten the health of those who use them.

The GOP senators will contend that "on-site inspection" of the "K-K" communications is necessary to reach a sound decision on the full implications of the test ban pact on U.S. foreign policy.

Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, Ill., is drafting this dynamite-loaded request. It will be sent to the White House under his signature and those of GOP members of the Foreign Relations Committee, which will conduct the hearings on the treaty.

In discussing his unique proposal with colleagues, Dirksen is stressing that the closely-guarded "K-K" correspondence should be made available to the Senate "so we will be able to determine before voting on this treaty how far down the road toward complete disarmament the President is committing us."

"Only by seeing what is in the 'K-K' letters," avers Dirksen, "will we really know where this treaty is taking us."

In urging Republican senators to remain uncommitted until treaty debate is concluded, Dirksen explains he will seek access to all the Kennedy-Khrushchev letters and not just those dealing with the test ban.

"Since the President and his foreign policy advisers have held all policies and actions toward Cuba and Berlin must be considered within the framework of our overall foreign policy," Dirksen says, "all correspondence with Khrushchev should be laid before the Senate in order to make perfectly clear how the treaty will affect our relations with the Soviet in these crucial areas."

Lifting The Lid — As previously reported in this column, President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev have exchanged more than 30 letters on subjects ranging from the test ban to Cuba, and from setting up an international crisis commission to a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw Pact nations.

In an exchange just before the test ban agreement, the President indicated willingness to meet with Khrushchev this fall, provided a partial accord was concluded.

Khrushchev's reply to this offer would be of utmost interest to the Senate. While he left the door open for a summit conference, the Soviet ruler raised the question of whether any pact could "gain the acquiescence of your Congress."

Khrushchev made it clear he held strong misgivings on this score.

If the President does allow the Senate to examine this absorbing "K-K" correspondence — which is highly doubtful — the lawmakers would learn that Khrushchev picked the time and place for the test ban negotiations.

Also that the Kremlin leader is convinced the President favors a nonaggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw Pact countries.

In one exchange, Khrushchev wrote that "In light of your Thanksgiving Day (1961) statement to my son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubel, I see no obstacle to reaching an agreement with you on my proposal for a NATO-Warsaw non-aggression pact."

As a clincher, Khrushchev quoted the President's statement — "It would be helpful if NATO and the Warsaw Pact engaged in a commitment to live in peace with each other."

Senator Dirksen and the other Republican leaders feel they have nothing to lose in seeking access to these and other unpublished details of the Kennedy-Khrushchev correspondence.

If the President should let them read these historic letters, their votes for or against the treaty will be on that clearcut basis. If the President asserts "executive privilege," as is virtually certain, those senators who oppose the treaty will have a strong argument for taking that stand.

The giant tackle was most dismayed by the results shown on his semester report card. Taking the card to his friend the coach, he said, "Gee, coach, what am I gonna do?"

"Now, sit down, Moose," said the coach. "Let's look this thing over."

With furrowed brow the coach studied the card intently. "Well, it says you got a 'D' and three 'F's—look to me, Moose, like you been putting too much time on one subject."

One of Harry Hershfield's favorites is the one about the gay old blade who was asked on his death bed: "Don't you want to denounce the Dev's?" And he replied, "I don't think this is the time to antagonize anybody."

Parents and campers will participate in games and activities planned by the counselors. All children who attended the recent day camping season will participate.

Baked goods will be on sale and a table of clothing and articles accumulated during the camping season will be displayed for parents to recognize and claim. Arts and crafts made by campers will be displayed for sale.

The proceeds will be used by the YMCA for the day camping program for next summer. Anyone wishing to contribute for the sale may contact Mrs. Frank Grab, arts and crafts instructor; Mrs. John Nauman, Girls Camp director; or Robert Wilson, Boys Camp director.

Sump Pumps End Needless Repairs

IF YOU plan to buy a new house in the next few years, it may pay you to learn about sump pumps.

A recent survey of builders indicates that more than 60 per cent of the houses to be built in the next five years will have basements. This can mean unexpected problems for the unprepared.

One of these problems, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, is flooding. Excess water can get into even the most soundly constructed homes, the Bureau points out. It comes from flash floods, broken water mains, seepage during heavy rains and even from water-using appliances.

Many new homes are built with overhead sewers. This means that the floor of the basement is below the level of the sewer and that excess water cannot be drained from the basement floor by gravity.

If excess water cannot be drained by gravity to a sewer or other low point, the Bureau warns, costly property damage and inconvenience can result. This is especially true when heating plants and electrical appliances are installed there. Even in the best-constructed houses, water can collect from rain seepage and downspouts.

The following provisions are recommended by the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau for any home with a seepage and drainage problem.

1. Water in the basement should be directed to and collected in a pit, commonly known as a sump.

2. A pump should be installed in this sump to automatically discharge the water into a sewer, disposal field of a septic tank, dry well, or a drain leading away from the house.

Without a sump pump, your basement can become a center of damage and inconvenience.

But whatever the source of the flooding water, says the Bureau, an experienced plumbing contractor can provide the proper sump pump drainage system to eliminate the problem.

The contractor will construct a pit called a sump and install a pump for automatically discharging the excess water into a sewer, dry well or into a drain away from the house.

Any reliable plumbing contractor can explain the differences in pumps and systems and the way they work for the homeowner's benefit.

QUALITY IS BEST BUY

"YOU get what you pay for." is an adage that is going in popularity as consumers learn more about quality, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

When you buy inferior bathroom and powder room fixtures, the Bureau points out, it's a case of save now and pay later. Attractive, durable, top-of-the-line fixtures, last longer, look better and bring top dollar if you sell your house.

Competent Contractors May Save Time And Money

THE important parts of a watch are within the case, not in the face design. Similarly, the important working parts of a plumbing system are hidden behind plaster and under the floor.

It is because the vital part of the plumbing system is concealed, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, that the selection of a plumbing contractor becomes so important for the safe and trouble-free performance of the entire installation.

But aside from the basic structure of the installation, says the Bureau, it is a good idea to consult a reputable plumbing contractor before the plans for a new house reach the final blueprint stage. This talk will give the prospective builder invaluable information on the selection of fixtures, the advantages of various types of fixtures, piping materials, water characteristics and how they affect the selection of materials, and the planning and arrangement of the fixtures.

Outside Faucets Add Convenience

PLENTY of hot and cold water outside the house will help make summer the time when living is truly easy.

A patio sink with hot and cold water, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, is ideal for those who enjoy entertaining outdoors.

Outdoor cooking and cleaning up become simple chores with a patio sink handy to eliminate the need for running back and forth into the house. Such kitchen-like convenience on the patio makes it possible for the host to feel like a guest at his cookout.

Another good idea, the Bureau points out, is to have a drinking fountain installed in the yard at just the right height for children. This makes it un-

During the ceremony, Lucille Lorenz sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Miss Pamela Cyphers, organist. The church was decorated with white gladioli, mums and carnations.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the VFW Home, Stroudsburg, which was decorated with pink and white streamers and large white wedding bells. About 100 guests attended.

The newlyweds will make their future home with the bride's mother at 210 Braeside Ave., East Stroudsburg.

Better Be Realistic Than A Perfectionist

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

We're all for trying for perfection in jobs — and the rest of life!

But, as a writer whose job it is to write about trying to be perfect, or almost perfect, for the almost-perfect job and life, we do have occasional worries. And, paradoxically, these worries all concern themselves with the danger of trying too hard without, at the same time, learning to balance goals and ideals with limitations and realities.

Balance Is Needed

This worry is legitimate, too, because every day we see somewhere an obvious need for this balance. In fact, we saw it again today when we talked to an office manager employed by a large company.

"I'm on the verge of a nervous breakdown because of my compulsion to be a perfectionist," she told us. "I just don't know how to cope with my job or my home any more."

Give Her A Pain

"The people at work give me migraines because of the way they goof off. They don't accomplish half of what they could if they worked as I plan they should. Consequently by the time it's five o'clock I'm completely frustrated by the way the day has gone. This isn't a good way to go home either because, by the time I hit the house, more frustration sets in."

Mt. Pocono Group Plans Bazaar

Mt. Pocono — The Altar and Rosary Society of St. John of Arc Church, Pocono Summit, at their meeting held in the church auditorium, made final plans for the "Amateur Antics" to be held in the auditorium, August 21, at 8 p.m. Mrs. John Planchock is chairman.

Others named to the committee were: publicity, Mrs. George Guida; program ads, Mrs. John Kinsel and Mrs. John Fedin; door prizes, Mrs. Andrew Stydhar; refreshments, Mrs. Leo DeSanto; tickets, Mrs. Kenneth Hay and Mrs. Theresa Shimko.

Mrs. Shimko presided, and thanked all who helped to make the recent bazaar a success. She said the girls of the society received her special thanks for their help.

Mrs. Edward Bobby and Mrs. Shimko will handle altar care, and be hostesses for August.

Rev. John Walsh, moderator of the society is musical director and is working hard with the cast of "Antics" to insure another treat for the audience who requested another show, after attending the 1962 "Antics".

Mrs. Joseph DeSanto and Mrs. Leo DeSanto served refreshments.

"Unfortunately I'm a perfectionist in my home, too, and I'm determined that my house won't lack perfect order just because I go to work. To leave it this way every morning I just about knock myself out."

"But you should see it in the summer when all the kids are home! As teenagers, they overlook everything and say they just weren't thinking."

Utter Chaos

"They leave food out of the refrigerator after they make a sandwich, use every glass we own and pile them all in the sink, forget to set the table, leave their beds unmade and have their minds on everything else but keeping the house in order.

"As a perfectionist, it's driving me crazy to have things that aren't right anywhere. But you don't know how it's making me feel to end every day in a temper and rage because I'm beside myself!"

We do know how this woman feels because we've seen the picture ourselves — with workers who'd rather goof off than work and with teenagers who feel the same.

Boo For Goof-Offs

We don't condone the view, naturally. Goofing off on the job is bad. So is every glass in the sink and tables that aren't set.

But in jobs and in life, things aren't perfect, any more than we're perfect ourselves. And even though perfection is a noble goal and one that we need to get ahead, it's just as noble to know when to let the striving rest, accept our own and other people's shortcomings and ride along with the imperfections of a world that's not perfect.

Nothing's Perfect

You can't be a full-time perfectionist when you deal with human frailties and want to be human yourself. So when you feel migraines coming, learn to balance goals and ideals with limitations and realities.

Off The Record

—By BOB CLARK

The Pocono Mountains may still have a first class golf tournament this year if the dreams of Glen Brook professional and manager Paul Patton come true.

Patton, a man who won't try anything haphazardly, has been working hard the past few weeks in attempt to get a two-day professional and amateur links classic off the ground.

However many obstacles are facing the former Notre Dame linebacker. One is to find an open date for the professionals and the other is to weave together an event that will have all the trimmings of class.

Monday usually is the day for the golf professionals to take a busman's holiday. Patton hopes to go one up on the play-for-pay boys and get them in Sunday for a pro-am kickoff. Then follow with the pro-pro best ball runoff the next day.

The man who learned his football under Frank Leahy at South Bend and who later became an assistant grid coach and head hockey tutor at Cornell has his work cut out for him. But a sampling of areas surrounding the Poconos indicates more than a few of the professionals are interested in such a venture.

If all barriers are lifted the picturesque 18-hole course at Glen Brook will see golfers from New York, Delaware, New Jersey and Pennsylvania adorning their fairways sometime in September.

September appears to be the best time for the affair. It is the period of the year when the Philadelphia PGA has vacancies in their long summer schedule which will allow Patton and his colleagues the opportunity to run a tournament without little or no opposition.

There is no doubt that the beautiful Poconos would be an ideal site for such a classic. All so if Patton and his backers can come up with a representative prize purse more interest will be shown.

Patton—probably because he was indoctrinated by perfect play Leahy—will not put on a fly-by-night tournament. If the pre-event workings do not jive, Paul will drop plans until a more suitable time.

Indeed the Poconos could use a few star-studded offerings to further pin-point the sport. Aside the Danny Kaye tee-off at Tumbleton and the Bill Waite special at Shawnee Hill, notice of the fine Poconos goes to the outside fairways world.

Even if Patton's idea doesn't get off the ground this year you have to give the man "A" for effort. And in this day and age it is something for a guy to even note that the rest of the world is passing by.

Pale Hose Turn Back Angels, 8-1

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Camilo Carreon, drove in three runs with a double and a single as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Los Angeles Angels 8-1 Sunday.

Right-hander Joel Horlen, bailed out of an eighth inning jam by veteran reliever Hoyt Wilhelm, picked up his sixth victory in nine decisions.

Horlen, working on a four-hitter after seven innings, was relieved when the Angels loaded the bases with two out in the eighth. The threat collapsed when Wilhelm got Bob Rodgers to ground out on the first pitch.

The Twins scored both of their runs on homers, Jim Hall hit his 17th in the fifth inning and Harmon Killebrew hit his 25th in the ninth. Killebrew is tied with teammate Bob Allison for the American League home lead.

10-Game E-Burg High Grid Card

EAST STROUDSBURG — Jack Kist's East Stroudsburg High varsity football team will play a 10-game schedule this year.

The Cavaliers will open the campaign, Saturday, Sept. 21, hosting Slatington High at home. Archival Stroudsburg will wind up Eastburg's season, entertaining the Cavaliers at Gordon Giffels Field, Thanksgiving morning, Nov. 28.

Newcomer Pocono Mountain Joint is the only newcomer to the Cavaliers slate. The Cardinals replace Port Jervis, N.Y. High. Eastburg and Pocono Mountain will clash Nov. 9 under the lights at East Stroudsburg's Memorial Stadium.

Kist's proteges will play six Lehigh-Northampton League tussles. Lehigh contests include duels with Pen Argyl, away, Sept. 28; Bangor, home, Oct. 4; Parkland, away, Oct. 19; Wilson, home, Oct. 26; Heliottown, away, Nov. 2; and Nazareth, home, Nov. 16.

The other game on Eastburg's card is a non-loop affair with Lehigh at the Indians' gridiron, Oct. 11.

West End, Stroudsburg, Bushkill Post PML Wins

WEST END, Stroudsburg and Bushkill notched triumphs in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League yesterday. Front-running West End submerged Saylorsburg, 12-2; second place Stroudsburg corralled Readers, 9-5; and third place Bushkill edged Bowmanstown, 3-2.

Stroudsburg (11-4) used the clutch pitching of Doug Price and Carl Motts and the batting of Glenn Blasing and Jack Sommers to hand Readers (6-10) a setback.

Price went 8 and one-third innings before giving way to Motts who struck out the last two batters with the bases loaded.

Blasing and Sommers clobbered three hits each. Bob Renchler and Bill Carson added the A's attack with two safeties apiece. George Hartshorn, Spike Werheiser and Carl Bessecker paced Readers at the plate, stroking out two safeties each.

Bushkill (8-7) put over two runs in the eighth frame to defeat Bowmanstown (4-12). George Bromer, in relief of Wescott, picked up the mound triumph for Curt Hickman's nine.

Harold Litts led the winners at the plate with two hits. A homer by Frank Marinaccio was the big blow for Bushkill.

Joe Lilly and Les David split four of the five Bowmanstown hits off the slants of Wescott and Bromer. Dick Bowman was tagged with the mound loss.

No boxscore of the West End (11-2) and Saylorsburg (4-12) fray was available.

Mantle Hits Pinch-Hit Homer

Yanks, Orioles Split

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra drove a sacrifice fly to right field with one out and the bases loaded in the 10th inning Sunday, scoring Tony Kubek with the run that brought the New York Yankees an 11-10 nighttime victory over Baltimore. The Orioles had won the opener 7-2.

The Yanks, who staked Baltimore to five unearned runs in the first two innings, had to come from behind twice, tying it for the last time in the seventh on Mickey Mantle's pinch-hit home run.

In the 10th, Kubek and Bobby Richardson popped one-out singles and Tommy Tresh was intentionally passed. Berra came in to bat for Elston Howard and lined to right on a 6-2 pitch.

Steve Barber, John Powell and John Orsino cracked home runs and Luis Aparicio singled in two key runs in the Orioles' relatively easy first game conquest.

Aguirre's 2-Hitter Gives Tigers Split With Tribe

DETROIT (AP)—Hank Aguirre pitched the Detroit Tigers to a sparkling two-hit 2-0 victory in the opener of a doubleheader and the Cleveland Indians won the nightcap 3-2 by doing all their scoring in the last inning of the day.

The Indians were headed for their fourth straight defeat and had mustered only seven hits in the two games when they suddenly erupted in the ninth inning of the nightcap. Tito Francona drove in the tying and winning runs with a bases loaded single off Jim Bunning, the third Tiger pitcher of the inning.

Aguirre yielded only a line single to Willie Tasby in the fourth and another single to Joe Adcock in the ninth in winning a pitchers' duel with Jack Kralick in the opener.

Don Wert's homer in the third and Rocky Colavito's run-scoring single in the eighth accounted for all the scoring.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics jumped on the Detroit Tigers for five runs in the third inning Sunday and went on to a 6-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins behind the five-hit pitching of Moe Drabowsky.

Norm Siebern led the A's 12-hit attack with three singles in five trips. Drabowsky had one of the A's hits and drove in two runs in gaining his third triumph against eight losses.

The Twins scored both of their runs on homers, Jim Hall hit his 17th in the fifth inning and Harmon Killebrew hit his 25th in the ninth. Killebrew is tied with teammate Bob Allison for the American League home lead.

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 5-2 and 4-1, Sunday, with Frank Robinson driving in three runs with two doubles in the opener and Tommy Harper hitting a decisive two-run homer in the nightcap.

Both games were decided in the early innings. Robinson's doubles came in the first and second innings while Harper hit his seventh homer after Pete Rose had led off with a single in the first inning of the second game.

Bob Bailey had hit Joe Nuxhall's second pitch of the nightcap over the fence for a homer, giving Pittsburgh 1-0 lead.

Harper, who collected three hits in the second runs, scored the Reds' other runs. He singled in the third, stole second base and crossed the plate on Gene Freese's hit in the fifth. Harper doubled and scored all the way from second as Vada Pinson grounded out.

Pennel Aims For 17 Feet

LONDON (AP)—John Pennel, 23-year-old American pole vaulter, set himself a target of 17 feet Sunday in the duel track and field meet between the United States and Britain at London's White City Stadium.

Pennel thrilled the London crowd at the same stadium July 13 when he soared to a height of 16 feet, 8 1/2 inches for a world record.

"I know it's ambitious aiming at 17 feet," the Northeast Louisiana University athlete said, "but we'll give it a try."

Pennel's attempt to raise the pole vault mark to 17 feet highlights Monday's program — the last session of the two-day meet.

The use of the fiber glass pole has revolutionized the pole vault in recent years and now makes the height of 17 feet possible.

The U.S. men led Britain by 61-44 after Saturday's program. The British girls had a slim 28-27 lead.

There will be 10 men's events and six for the women Monday on a track likely to be wet and soggy after heavy weekend rain.

The highlight of the track events is likely to be the 220 yards, matching America's Henry Carr of the Phoenix Olympic Club, and Paul Drayton of the Philadelphia Pioneer Club, against the British pair of Peter Radford and David Jones.

Carr already has beaten the world mark for a curved track of 20.5 set by Radford in May, 1960. Carr clocked 20.3 at Tempe, Ariz., in March. The mark awaits official ratification.

The 21-year-old Carr who stands 6-foot-3, and weighs 185 pounds will find the sharp bends of the White City track against a record-equaling time—but a time in 21 seconds seems almost certain.

Talking point among track experts Sunday still was the 400-yard relay won Saturday by Britain with a time of 40 seconds. That equaled the world mark around two turns set by three U.S. teams.

The American team was timed Saturday at 40.1.

Monday's meet winds up the American summer tour. The American men scored a narrow victory over the Soviet team and runaway victories over Poland and West Germany. The team is due home Tuesday.

King's Pair Of Homers Tops Bosox

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two home runs by Jim King and a three-run pinch hit homer by Minnie Minoso carried the Washington Senators to a 7-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox Sunday.

The Senators' four-run sixth inning gave Washington three victories in a row over the Red Sox on the strength of late rallies.

Minoso batted for Don Rudolph, starter and winner for the Senators, in the sixth inning with Don Zimmerman and pinch hitter Don Lepert on base. Minoso cracked Wilbur Wood's first pitch into the Senators' bullpen for his third homer. Wood was the loser in relief.

King hit his 18th home run off Bob Turley in the first inning and his 19th off Wood in the sixth. Boston 021 000 200—5 11 1 Washington 100 014 10X—7 12 3

CHICAGO (AP)—Willie Mays hit his 27th home run with one out in the 10th inning, giving the San Francisco Giants a 2-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday.

Mays' blast came off reliever Lindy McDaniel, who suffered his fourth defeat against seven triumphs.

Don Larsen, fourth San Francisco pitcher, picked up his third triumph after putting down a bases loaded threat in the Cub half of the ninth.

The Giants scored an unearned run in the fourth inning after two

Blues Batter Grays In '33' Grid Classic

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—It was a blue day for the Gray just like the Battle of Gettysburg 100 years ago.

The Grays made costly mistakes then and did the same last night—only this time in the sixth annual Big 33 High School Football Classic at Hershey Stadium.

The Blue-clad forces cashed in on heads up defense to overwhelm the Grays, 36-6, behind the brilliant leadership of quarterback Dick Vidmer of Hempfield Area.

"What can you do when you fumble and make the mistakes we did?" moaned a dejected Gray general, Coach Dale Hall, formerly of Army.

"There we are marching down the field and all of a sudden they score the touchdown."

The Gray team lost six fumbles, three of which were converted into touchdowns.

But it was Vidmer and alert defense that turned the tide of the game, dedicated this year to the Centennial observance of the epic Battle of Gettysburg.

Vidmer, the first string quarterback on the 1962 Associated Press All-State Team, reeled off two touchdowns himself and set up two more with his running and passing.

The only six-pointer Vidmer did not have a hand in was the dazzling 46-yard sprint by Allan Cliffe of New Castle in the waning minutes of the game to put icing on the Blue cake.

Vidmer dashed 25 yards out of a trap for his first score, then added six more on a 10-yard run nine minutes later.

Complete Scoring
Completing the Blue scoring parade were Frank Antonio of Ambridge with a zig-zagging 25-yard sweep around end and Dan Spanish of New Castle with a two-yard drive up the middle.

Miss Another
The Blues almost scored a sixth touchdown in the fourth period on a pass from Vidmer to Bob Vukmer of Townville, but the Erie County end fumbled in the end zone and Ed Kassak of Coal Dale pounced on the ball giving the Grays possession on the 20.

"Vidmer was the boy who held us together," said Blue Coach George (Lefty) James, formerly of Cornell. We were on the verge of falling apart at times and he held the team together."

It was James' third straight victory over a Big 33 coach. The contest matched 32 of Pennsylvania's top 1962 high school stars.

Phillies Sink Cardinals Twice

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Right-hander Ray Cup's arm and ball carried Philadelphia to a 7-3 first game victory Sunday and the Phillies completed a sweep that knocked St. Louis out of second place by winning the nightcap 5-2.

Cup, hitless for two months, scored after his first single, then singled to drive in two mates in the decisive three-run seventh against loser Lew Burdette.

The Phillies trailed in the nightcap, 2-1, when they rallied with four straight hits and a sacrifice fly to route Bob Gibson.

Tony Taylor singled, Johnny Callison doubled, Wes Covington singled a run home to tie the score, Tony Gonzalez doubled to drive in the lead run and Roy Sievers hit a sacrifice fly.

The Daily Investor

Risk In Any Investment

By William A. Doyle

Q. I recently became heir to common stocks of two companies. One is Studebaker Corp. and the other is a rather small life insurance company. If I decide to sell these stocks and invest in another company, can you recommend one which will give me a lifetime profit?

A. If I read your letter correctly, you are asking the following: Can I name a stock for you to buy that will never drop in value below the price you pay for it? Will that stock provide you with absolutely sure income?

The answer is a flat "no." There is a risk in any investment. That's a point that is always stressed in this space. And, if I can get that point through to the investing public, I honestly feel I will perform a real service.

Now, I'm not trying to scare people away from buying stocks. There are many, many fine stocks that have been and will be fine investments.

But I do want people to be cautious. I would urge you to go to a broker; get some information on stocks; study that information and (with the broker's assistance) decide on a stock or stocks best suited for your individual investment aims.

Frankly, it would seem to be wise to consider selling Studebaker. That company has had a tough time for quite a while now. Its only recent year of any sizable profits was in 1959 — when it was doing well selling compact cars. Then, when the larger auto manufacturers got into the compact act, Studebaker went back down. No dividends have been paid since 1953. This stock must be rated as a speculation.

I would advise you to check with a broker on the insurance company stock. Many insurance stocks have done quite well and hold the promise of doing well in the future.

Q. I am in possession of a box of very old books — some printed almost 200 years ago and a single-barrel shotgun made in 1790. How can I find out the value of these books and the gun?

A. It's certain that many readers are asking, "Why is he printing that question?"

I'll tell you why. It is typical of many questions that come in that are so far afield that they can never be answered here. I only hope that readers will take the hint and stop asking for information completely out of my line.

I would suggest that the writer of this letter go first to the public library and second to a sporting goods store. A librarian should be able to provide names of rare book collectors. The sporting goods store should know something about firearms collectors.

I have been learning something about the high prices of good shotguns lately. My Big Guy (coming up to age 11) thinks both he and I should get skeet guns.

Q. I received a letter from Toronto, Canada, urging me to invest in orange groves in British Honduras, at $12 an acre. I know that you have warned against mail solicitations to invest in faraway places. Does this one strike you as shady?

A. The orange trees may grow some shade — if they exist or are ever planted. But it's a pretty safe bet that anyone who falls for this or similar schemes will never see the light — of profits or income.

Delaware Water Gap

N. E. Burd

THE MIDNIGHT fire alarm, Friday night, though it was sounded very briefly had Gap folks popping out of bed to go from window to window to look for a blaze of fire. Not until next day did they hear that it was an automobile on Foxtown Hill. Firemen responded quickly to the alarm.

Miss Kathleen Poortstra is in Water Gap each Saturday morning in charge of the young people's choir practice and then the practice of the children's choir for the Methodist Church.

The Water Gap women are getting into the act at the baseball field on Broad Street. With the children safely back of a wire screen to watch, mothers can swing the bat or slide for base. They will soon be able to challenge the men.

Mrs. Robert Kaiser has been taking her four children—Valerie, Bradley, Rebecca and Vanessa—to Portland each morning for two weeks to the Vacation Bible School held by the churches there. Thursday night the children joined in the commencement exercises which had the church filled to more than capacity and thrilled the hearers.

Friends who missed Mrs. M. E. Leffler at the polls last week, heard that she was under the doctor's care. They are glad to know that she has recovered and is out and about.

Mrs. Helena Transue has been visiting her brother Archibald Keller at his home on Broad Street.

Daniel I. Neidorf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Neidorf of Shepherd Ave., who was awarded a Master of Arts degree in Geography at the University of Illinois in February and had begun work toward his PhD, has decided to serve in the United States armed forces before working further toward that degree. He will be serving in the Intelligence Department.

State News Roundup

Legal Betting Bill Backed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The regular July grand jury suggested Friday that lotteries be legalized in Pennsylvania.

Common Pleas Judge Leo Weinroth, accepting the jury's report, said he agreed wholeheartedly with its recommendation on legalizing lotteries "to bring in revenue and free our courts of some of the petty cases."

"The only way to get rid of racketeers is to legalize gambling in Pennsylvania," Weinroth said. "This would put them right out of business."

The judge suggested that money derived from legalized gambling could be diverted to hospitals, schools and other worthwhile institutions.

Weinroth, saying gambling is a $1 billion a year industry in the nation, asked: "Why should the racketeer get all the benefits?"

Scott Asks Test Ban Caution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., has asked President Kennedy to move with caution in negotiations on a non-aggression pact in view of Russian policy in Europe.

In a letter to the president Saturday, Scott, voicing reservations about the wisdom of the proposed non-aggression pact, said Russia has not deviated from its aims in Europe—acceptance by the West of the subjugation of Eastern Europe, the neutralizing of West Germany and the weakening of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Licenses To End On Birthdays

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Starting in 1965 Pennsylvania driver's licenses will expire every other year in the month of the driver's birthday. State Revenue Secretary Theodore B. Smith Jr. says, "The benefit will be that licenses will get out on time," Smith said Saturday. "We won't have to experience the same problems we did in the past and we won't have to extend deadlines."

Smith said extensions had to be made this year because the Bureau of Motor Vehicles had too many hand operations.

The legislature approved the new system two years ago.

Money Voted For College Program

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Senate has completed action on a proposed $500,000 appropriation for establishment of a statewide network for community colleges.

The bill, backed by the administration and amended by the House to emphasize technical training, whizzed through the Senate 50-0 and was sent to Gov. Scrantom for his signature.

The fund would be earmarked for use in establishing vocational-technical training schools at the senior high school level, as well as the community colleges.

Scranton Signs Transition Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — Legislation designed to provide for smoother transitions to new state administrations has been signed into law by Gov. Scranton.

Scranton signed an act which authorizes governors-elect to designate an interim staff for preparation of their budgets and legislative programs before they actually take office.

Two Changes In State Offices

HARRISBURG (AP) — The office of administration announced yesterday two more personnel changes in the state's comptroller system.

The $10,500-a-year job of John Gaillo as comptroller of the state banking and insurance departments has been abolished, according to the office's statement.

Comptrollers are the chief financial officers for the various state agencies.

Plans are to place the comptroller's duties for these two departments with other state agencies, according to an office spokesman.

Bill Stipulates Doctor's Report

HARRISBURG (AP) — A joint Senate-House Conference Committee agreed Thursday to adopt the original form of a bill creating fines and penalties for doctors and pharmacists who fail to report treatment of knife and shooting victims.

The measure establishes a $500 fine and up to one year in jail for such a violation.

'Kind Sir' Opens Today At Pocono Playhouse

MOUNTAINHOME — John Forsythe and Patricia Barry will star in Norman Krauss' comedy "Kind Sir" at the Pocono Playhouse, beginning Monday night.

Forsythe is a well known television actor, having been seen in the series "Bachelor Father," and several other special shows. He appeared in Broadway's "Vicki," and "Yankee Point."

Miss Barry made her debut in Broadway's "Calico Wedding," and followed closely with the shows "Holiday," "Seven Year Itch," and "Pink Elephants."

"Kind Sir" is a story of the romance between a State Department playboy and a young woman looking for a husband. The State Department man is faced with two choices: either marry her and settle down, or tell her he's married, and misunderstood. He chooses the latter in the hope he can have his cake and eat it too.

Included in the cast are Mary Cooper, Frank Milan, Don Dougherty, and Hildegard Halliday.

The play is under the direction of Gus Schirmer Jr.

Reservations may be made by calling 566-7456, or the playhouse box offices in Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, or Honesdale.
